Probe short terminates S-II shoot

The second flight acceptance test firing of the S-II-1 Saturn V-Apollo moon shot second stage booster rocket component was automatically terminated in its initial stages at 10:20 p.m. last Thursday at Mississippi Test Facility after an engine ignition probe indicated no ignition on engine No. 5.

Later analysis of data revealed there was an electrical short circuit in the probe and, in fact, all five engines did ignite and were performing properly when the cut-off occurred. Although the test had not yet been re-scheduled it is hoped a count-down can be started to permit a firing later this week.

The shoot termination came after a perfect countdown of two hours and 38 minutes, with no holds.

"Had the rocket been on an actual flight, all systems would have rendered a perfect performance," Terry Malone, public information officer, said yesterday.

Although the four outer engines of the stage pivot to give guidance to the rocket during its six minutes of firing flight time, the center stage, the one the probe indicated did not fire, is a fixed unit.

Each of the five J-2 motors provides 200,000 pounds of thrust, for a combined thrust of one million pounds, and burns liquid hydrogen and oxygen. When fully tanked with 267,700 gallons or 155,000 pounds of liquid oxygen and 87,400 or 82,200 pounds of liquid hydrogen, the stage weighs 1,064,000 pounds. It is built by North American Aviation Co.

Bay building still good, at $1.6 mill.

The $1,647,012 in building permits issued to date in 1966, construction in Bay St. Louis is just above the record total of $1.8 million set last year.

The '66 figures in total exceed of 1965's total of $1.3 million and almost equal to the $1.7 million total for 1963. This latter included permits for three apartments of $1 million which left just $700,000 for all other building and alteration.

Building activity ended up in the last six months with

Echo, Eagle to merge Jan. 1, '67

John Dambrino, publisher of the Hancock County Eagle, and Powell Glass, Jr., publisher of the Sea Coast Echo, have announced the merger of the two local papers effective next week.

According to Glass, who heads up the enterprise, the reason for the consolidation is that Bay St. Louis cannot yet afford two financially strong papers.

"We feel it is better to have one strong paper than two struggling ones," he said.

While the decision is not yet final it seems probable the Eagle as such will cease to be published.

"This will permit the combined staff to concentrate on the news," Glass noted.

After clearing out the back ends resulting from the cessation of his operating the Eagle will take over the position of production manager of the Echo and his job printing operations, Glass Publishing Co.

Eagle subscriptions paid in advance will be honored until their expiration date.

The Hancock County Eagle was established in August, 1949, with the first issue hitting the stands on Sept. 15 of that year. It has been published continuously since that time with no missing issues, Dambrino said. He had been associated with the Echo for 27 years before founding the Eagle.

The Sea Coast Echo, Hancock County's oldest newspaper, was founded by Charles G. Moreau in 1892. It was purchased by Glass in January, 1959.

only $431,012 in new construction as compared to $1,216,607 during the first half of the year.

Included in the first six month figure were three commercial permits totaling $1,078,000. This left $138,000 to other building and alterations. They were for Auralian Hall at St. Stanislaus College, St. Rosemarie Gymnasium at St. Augustine's Seminary and a 27-unit apartment building on Dunbar Avenue just north of U. S. 90.

Figures released Tuesday by Harry Benjamin, city building inspector, show Auralian Hall, built at a cost of $750,000 led the list in value of single permits.

Combined with the SSC construction, two permits issued to St. Augustine's Seminary, for a total of $240,839, brought amounts accounted for by church and educational institutions to $990,839. The new gymnasium at St. Augustine's was for $118,000 while a cafeteria building at this location, now under construction, is to cost $122,839.

Street study to tell fix requirements

A 50-page preliminary report on what Bay St. Louis streets need in the way of permanent repairs was presented to City Commission Council Tuesday.

The study was prepared by William S. Goldman, city engineer for the project, and Kasper, Jordan and Seidman, consulting engineers from Natchez.

City Commissioner of Utilities J. Cyril Glover said the report will be made available to the press, probably next week, after city officials have had a chance to examine it.

Meanwhile sewer and water contractors and representatives of Owen and White, consulting engineers on the utilities project conferred Tuesday at the home of Mayor John A. Scaddie on details of their clean-up as work moves to conclusion.

Waveland to raise sales tax

Steps to double Waveland's sales tax were initiated by the board of aldermen at a recessed meeting last Thursday.

Attorney Lucien M. Gex, Jr., was instructed to prepare the necessary legal papers raising the present 1.5 percent half cent to a full cent. Waveland has been one of nine municipalities in the state with only a half cent sales tax.

The resolution formalizing the action is expected to be ready for the first January meeting of Town Council next Tuesday. Based on this year's sales tax take, it approximates an increase in figured at least $10,000 more in revenue for the town's general fund. Council also provided payment of the debt roll and transfer from the general fund to the town fund to meet these obligations.

Spring pilgrimage set here April 4

Almost a century of building design, interior arrangement and motif will be presented in delightful contrast to participants of this year's Bay-Waveland Annual Spring Pilgrimage.

With thoughtful planning the sponsoring organization, the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs, has scheduled the first event on Tuesday, April 4, as a visit to the ultra-modern home of Dr. and Mrs. Andrew K. Martinovich, Jr., on Seabe Street. This will be followed by an across town trip to the almost 100-year old residence of Col. and Mrs. Nunez Pilet on North Beach.

After visiting the two houses pilgrims will be treated to an exhibit of antique bric-a-brac, old lace, silver, china, small lamps and the like at the Garden Center, on Leonard Avenue, home of the event's local organizer, the Bay-Waveland

Garden Club.

The local pilgrimage will culminate with a visit to Bay-Waveland Yacht Club for the final item on the agenda, a display of works by the Hancock Art League.

Starting on Saturday, April 1 in Biloxi, the 19th annual spring pilgrimage will travel to Long Beach on Sunday, April 2, here that Tuesday, Pass Christian on Wednesday, April 5, Gulfport and Mississippi City on Thursday; Ocean Springs that Friday, spend the following day in Gautier and terminate Sunday, April 29 at Pascagoula.

At the start of their visit to Bay-Waveland, the pilgrims will travel over the long winding pine covered approach drive to reach the Martinovich residence. Upon entry to the uniquely designed home they will admire the many modern features including the centrally located

Two the day after Christmas
And all over town,
Not one could be stirring,
'Cause no one's around.
The brown leaves are dripping
With beads of gray rain

Christmas was happy,
The new day, a pain.
There's a race to diamonds,
With needles that fall.
And a column needs writing—
Happy New Year to all!

When in doubt, we always resort to the tried and true formula of plagiarizing, more or less, in the form of a pretty awful bit of poetry. Thanks to the generosity of the kindred, miscoi base in the world, we've just gotten completely out of the usual routine, and can't seem to make the superior think-oven a little bit. The thrill of five whole days off... (not counting a few hours to knock out a couple of columns) has gone to our head, but if we expect to collect a pay check, better buckle down and give a condensed rundown on holiday festivities.

Day of big parties

The big company parties started the week before Christmas and there were at least four going on Saturday, Dec. 17, at the Broadwater Beach.

Hal and Fred Hargland, Nell and Bill Fricks and Carol and Paul Vegas tossed a large catered at the Hargland's home the same night. Some of the numerous guests included Margaret and Dick Shadoin, Peggy and Floyd Hayling, Babbie and Henry Maggio, Irma and Johnny Levas, Ida and Sam Whitfield, Ruth and Al Carlson, Emily and Renee de Montezin, Lucille and Terry Feeney and many, many more.

Gerry and Charlie Johnson's Nicholson Avenue home was beautifully decorated in colors of the season when they hosted a big party last Friday night. Chris (Mrs. Bob) Aldis pitched in and prepared professional looking canapés and hors d'oeuvres. Just a few present were the Aldis's, Elmore and Bob Whitson, Dot and Merlin Markel, Shirlene and Chuck Ranz, Claire and Otto Bourgoolis, and Georgette and Bob Torgersen.

Office party set

One of the better office parties took place last Tuesday at the McFarland Clinic with supper others, all over the place. John, Jr., Christmas John and Cesar, presented the floor show.

There was an unexpected influx of patients, friends and Johnny Levas re-enters their office celebration and held it at home on Friday night.

Linda (Mrs. Dennis) Whitmore and the La Jolla Foundation and partyed the same night. Some employees gave the house their gifts before the more agreed Wednesday a.m., but the girls, Donna Rutz, Bessie Raymond, Joyce David, Barbara Strong, Joyce Litaloy and Cheryl Lee, saved theirs for the "fun party" held that night at Gus Stevens.

Reimann's and the Patsy-Whitfield branch in the Bay, celebrated at Ramada Inn on Tuesday night and had quite a cheerful evening.

Saturday, Dec. 17 was also the date selected by General Electric employees for their yuletide fare.

Nancy (Mrs. Lillian) Cox received her gift in the form of a trip to Bayona, Tex., the week before Christmas, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R.J. LeCompte.

Less fortunate

Norman Sonier
to be married

The engagement of Miss Caroline Bounds to Norman Sonier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Sonier of Waveland, is announced this week by her mother, Mrs. Oscar Bounds of Piquette.

Miss Bounds, who is also the daughter of the late Oscar Bounds, is a graduate of William Carey College and is now teaching in the Carriere school system.

The groom, a Bay High graduate, attended Pearl River Junior College and is now employed by a Pascagoula shipbuilding firm. His father, Dominick Sonier, is alderman of the Second Ward in Waveland.

Wedding arrangements will be announced at a later date.

Hunting News

Ann (Mrs. Nick) Carabajal's nephew, John Scordill, III, son of Dr. and Mrs. Scordill of New Orleans, and a frequent guest of the Carabajals, is suffering from a bad case of "buck fever". He's only 11 years old, yet bagged a buck that dressed out at 125 pounds on his very first deer hunting trip. Ann isn't sure she'll let him return to Waveland...he just might out-fish her!

From the postmark on his latest card...dated Dec. 18 at Salt, Mexico, we fear that our good friend, Rev. Bertrand Eckert, spent Dec. 25, in some far away port...and he was so eager to home for the big day.

Dale models for Seventeen

An outstanding Mississippi girl is making her debut as a fashion model on the pages of a national publication.

Dale Russell, 18, 321 Main Street, is featured in the January issue of Seventeen Magazine as one of 17 girls chosen to personify the nation's most accomplished teens.

To find these girls, Seventeen's editors called the aid of leading civic, scholastic and service organizations, and thousands of young women under 20 were contacted. The winners were brought to New York to pose before the color camera for the fashion portfolio in the 21st annual "You the Model" issue, devoted to contributions of talented teens in every field.

The pretty teen, a freshman at the University of Southern Mississippi, is the daughter of Federal Judge and Mrs. Don M. Russell, Jr. She has worked for the March of Dimes since the age of five, when she mailed envelopes, and for the past four years has been county chairman of its teen-age program. "We held dances, collected on the highway, in homes and at ballgames, and did anything we could to make people aware of the March of Dimes and the vital work it does," she recalls.

Mrs. Russell plans to major in elementary education and teach first or second grade. "I am not how my work with March of Dimes helped me reach this decision," she says.
